Second Session of the 118th Congress Accomplishments

During the past year, the second session of the 118th Congress, Ranking Member Jamie Raskin and House Committee on Oversight and Accountability Democrats built on successes in the previous session, fighting to protect Americans from climate change, gun violence, and efforts to strip women and men of their reproductive rights, working to make our government more effective and transparent and exposing Donald Trump's schemes to sell out the government for personal profit, as well as exposing disinformation that damages public discourse.
