Mr. Michael Nelson President and Chief Executive Officer Allianz Global Assistance USA 9950 Maryland Drive Richmond, VA 23233

Dear Mr. Nelson:

The Subcommittee on Economic and Consumer Policy is examining whether travel insurance products provide adequate coverage for consumers who cancel travel due to the novel coronavirus (COVID-19). I invite you to testify at a hearing at 2:00 p.m. on Wednesday, March 11, 2020, in Room 2154 of the Rayburn House Office Building on this timely matter.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) has issued travel advisories, advising against travel to China, Iran, South Korea, Italy, and Japan. CDC has also issued precautions for air travel and cruises which will dissuade reasonable consumers from traveling due to fear of infection.

CDC recommends that concerned consumers purchase travel insurance from companies like yours. CDC suggests that "trip cancellation insurance can protect your financial investment in a trip if you need to change your itinerary in the event of an international outbreak." CDC even offers the helpful example: "Trip cancellation insurance might help ensure you are able to make a last-minute cancellation or change your itinerary in the event of an international outbreak, such as the current outbreak of Zika."

However, in contrast to CDC's characterization of the helpfulness of travel insurance in the case of international outbreak of disease, reports indicate that travel insurance companies may not be covering the costs of coronavirus-related travel cancellations.⁵

Specifically, your company's "Coverage Alert – 2019 Novel Coronavirus (2019-nCoV)" indicates that coronavirus is an "Epidemic," and that "many travel protection plans exclude losses caused directly or indirectly by an Epidemic." It also asserts that "the Coronavirus became a known event on January 22, 2020. Travel protection plans generally exclude losses caused by events that were known or foreseeable at the time the plan is purchased."

The Subcommittee is concerned that your policy to deny indemnification to your consumers who choose to refrain from travel to protect themselves, their families, and their communities may worsen the coronavirus pandemic.

At the hearing, we will offer you the opportunity to explain publicly why your company may deny coverage for those who choose not to travel because of the coronavirus.

The Committee on Oversight and Reform is the principal oversight committee of the House of Representatives and has broad authority to investigate "any matter" at "any time" under House Rule X.

If you have any questions regarding this request, please contact Committee staff at (202) 225-5051.

Sincerely,

Raja Krishnamoorthi

Chairman

Subcommittee on Economic and Consumer Policy
