Yes I agree. I don't think the substance has changed that much, but all the bells and whistles have led to some repetition and perhaps a change in the balance of overall emphasis as you suggest. No particular part feels wrong as it stands, it just doesn't seem as clear any more what the main thrust is.

Thanks, Paul. I need to review this more closely to develop a firmer view, but my gut reaction is that it may seem to go backward more because of all that is added on the positive role of oil & gas in the introductory section – thereby seeming to deemphasize the climate threat – than because of any major substantive change. I wonder if that bit could be pared down to something more concise (as one of the companies has apparently suggested) whether the document might seem more balanced again. Just a thought.

Bob,

My thoughts on the current draft, which are several. Is it me or are we going backwards? Not in the substance but in the articulation?

Happy to discuss.

Hi John. I am getting back from vacation today and wanted to check to see if you wanted to set time to discuss this before our next meeting on Thurs morning. Not essential but wanted to be sure to offer if you'd want to talk beforehand.

Wed would be best as we are still gathering input but we will be flexible according to your schedule.

Thanks,
Bob

Attached is the latest draft from API which reflects the various edits received from members other than Marathon Petroleum.

We will gather input from Paul, Jim and David (cc'd) and send you a redline for consideration early next week so we can confirm our views before the next meeting on Thursday.

CPTF: Please find attached the most recent version of the "evergreen" document for discussion at our meeting in Washington next Thursday. This version incorporates edits made during the August 3rd meeting in Houston, as well as the additional comments received up through today. A few notes about the draft:

- <!--[if !supportLists]--><![endif]-->We took Elliott Heide's suggestion to "accept all" changes that were made at the last meeting to help reduce clutter on the page and improve readability.
- <!--[if !supportLists]--><![endif]-->There were a number of overarching comments that we included at the end of the document for consideration. It may be best to review these questions prior to the specific edits in the document.
- <!--[if !supportLists]--><![endif]-->Lastly, Marathon Petroleum Company sent an alternate version of the document for consideration earlier today. A discussion of this alternate approach should lead off our conversation next week.

If you plan to attend the meeting, but have not yet responded to the Outlook invite, please do so in order to get an accurate headcount. For those who plan to participate by phone, please use:

We will begin at 8:00 AM eastern time on the 25th, and wrap up by 12:30. We will have breakfast available and sandwiches for those who wish to stay for lunch beyond the 12:30 adjournment of the meeting. I look forward to seeing you next week!

Given the results of the poll, we have set the date for the next CPTF meeting for Thursday, August 25 from 8:00 to 12:30. We will hold the meeting here at API, in room 1203. While I realize not everyone is available, and there was one day with potentially greater attendance, there was substantial availability on the 25th while keeping us on a tighter schedule. Given the work still needed on the "evergreen" document as well as the need to begin review of the carbon tax principles, I am reluctant to lose an additional week.

Also pencil in the afternoon of September 14th for our 3rd (tentative) meeting. At the end of our meeting on the 25th, we will agree whether this third meeting is necessary (and if so where it will be held) or whether we want to reschedule it as a conference call.

Lastly, as a reminder, we're looking for comments on the edits made to the "evergreen" document by this Friday (see below and attached for those edits sent Monday), as well as your suggested edits to the elements section at the end of that document.

Thanks,
Kyle

As was discussed last Wednesday, I am attaching the edits agreed upon during the meeting as well as inserting language developed by Howard and me in the opening as suggested.

Note that in the meeting, we eliminated any specific reference to energy efficiency programs. We have received a request to insert efficiency language into the document, so please provide your thoughts on such language.

Please review and send us any additional edits to the first two sections. Please also send us any suggested edits to the elements section (the last section that we did not cover in the meeting). In order to keep things moving, I'd appreciate your edits by Friday, August 12.

In addition, please be sure to respond to Howard's request for availability for our next meeting in DC and a potential third meeting in September (see links below). As we would like to set the next date for the next meeting ASAP, we ask that you respond to the surveys by COB Tuesday (8/9).

Best,
Kyle

API Climate Policy Task Force

Thank you to all who participated in what many have indicated was a successful meeting yesterday. We took away the following action items:

1. API will poll the Task Force members for their availability for the next meeting.

- <!--[if !supportLists]--><![endif]-->The link for that poll is <http://doodle.com/poll/ucixf2qedvv3tiag>

2. API will send a revised document early next week, incorporating the suggested edits into the first section and the principles section.

3. API will also solicit and incorporate edits to the legislative and regulatory elements section.

I'm actually going to add one more action item. Please indicate your availability for a potential third meeting IF NECESSARY at the following poll. It's probably better to get scheduled just in case sooner, as Sept could get very busy, but we would hold off on a [meeting/conf call/no meeting] decision until after the second meeting.

Subject: FW: Climate Policy Task Force meeting 8/3

Importance: High

On our conference call last Tuesday, I was asked to develop some draft language to address two issues in advance of our discussions on August 3rd. The language is attached.

Specifically, I have added draft language noting the intended use of the documents at the top of each. I have also lifted some natural gas language from our talking points and inserted it in the "evergreen" document. I have no pride of authorship on any of the suggested changes. These are just a strawman to address the two issues that were raised on Tuesday's call. Please come to the meeting on the 3rd prepared to discuss these and any other suggested edits you feel should be considered by the task force.

FYI, I will be out of the office beginning tomorrow, up to our meeting on the 3rd. I will check email as possible, but please contact Howard Feldman if any urgent issues arise during this time. See you on the 3rd. Best,

Kyle
