jim –

This evening, I'm joining a group of my colleagues on the Senate floor to expose a web of denial: Along with respected scientists and journalists, we're standing strong to shine a light on the trade associations, think tanks and shady front groups that have been funded by the Koch brothers, ExxonMobil and their allies to con the public and undermine climate action.

Decades of research confirms man-made climate change is a real and urgent threat. But deep-pocketed polluters have used their massive wealth to distort the facts, propping up climate deniers and preventing action in order to protect their financial interests.

It's time to hold polluters and their mouthpieces accountable for misleading the public about the dangers of climate change. Will you add your name as a citizen cosponsor of our resolution calling out fossil fuel companies and their allies for orchestrating a massive and deliberate climate denial campaign?

Thanks for standing with us.

Sheldon
