

Message

From: Stout, Robert [/O=MSXBP/OU=EXCHANGE ADMINISTRATIVE GROUP (FYDIBOHF23SPDLT)/CN=RECIPIENTS/CN=[REDACTED]]
Sent: 04/11/2016 18:00:57
To: Williams, Lance [/O=MSXBP/OU=EXCHANGE ADMINISTRATIVE GROUP (FYDIBOHF23SPDLT)/CN=RECIPIENTS/CN=[REDACTED]]
Subject: Fwd: Possible Moniz successor from Stanford?

Sent from my iPhone

Begin forwarded message:

From: "David G. Victor" <[REDACTED]@ucsd.edu>
Date: November 4, 2016 at 1:51:19 PM EDT
To: "Stout, Robert" <[REDACTED]@bp.com>
Subject: Re: Possible Moniz successor from Stanford?

Redacted - First Amendment

Sent from limited typing device

On Nov 4, 2016, at 9:56 AM, Stout, Robert <[REDACTED]@bp.com> wrote:

Redacted - First Amendment

Sent from my iPhone

On Nov 4, 2016, at 12:07 PM, David G. Victor <[REDACTED]@ucsd.edu> wrote:

Bob

Redacted - First Amendment

Congrats on the OGCI—and the emphasis on CCUS (and CCS) and CH4. Much to discuss on that front.

All best
David

From: "Stout, Robert" <[REDACTED]@bp.com>
Date: Friday, November 4, 2016 at 6:51 AM
To: "David G. Victor" <[REDACTED]@ucsd.edu>
Subject: Re: Possible Moniz successor from Stanford?

Redacted - First Amendment

BtW, on the positive side, you will shortly get a note from me about our OGCI announcement today including a headline billion dollar climate technology investment vehicle over 10 years. Focus on CCUS and methane.

We are alerting key people including Sarah L and others (and Heather Zichal is there at the London event with Bob as our guest). Anything you or your colleagues can do to help get the word out to folks would be much appreciated. There will be re-tweeting opportunities but equally if not more important is alerting thought leaders who care about climate action and technology development efforts.

Thanks,
Bob

Sent from my iPhone

On Nov 4, 2016, at 9:22 AM, David G. Victor <[REDACTED]@ucsd.edu> wrote:

Redacted - First Amendment

From: "Stout, Robert" <[REDACTED]@bp.com>
Date: Friday, November 4, 2016 at 6:14 AM
To: "David G. Victor" <[REDACTED]@ucsd.edu>
Subject: Possible Moniz successor from Stanford?

From today's Politico Pro:

INSIDE GREEN ACTIVISTS' CABINET DREAM TEAM: Activists on the left flank of the environmental movement are quietly pressuring Hillary Clinton to tap nominees for the Energy Department, Interior Department, EPA and other key administration posts who share their strident anti-fossil fuels values if she wins the presidency, Pro's Andrew Restuccia reports . The groups, including Greenpeace USA and 350.org, want reassurances that she is sufficiently committed to reining in oil, gas and coal development for the sake of fighting climate change, especially after hacked emails showed her team is wary of making big promises and occasionally dismissed activists' concerns.

Among their preferences for Energy Secretary are Stanford University professor Mark Jacobson, who has spent years modeling the effects of air pollution and he has detailed a plan to move the world toward 100 percent renewable energy, and former Michigan Gov. Jennifer Granholm, who has steadfastly opposed both the Keystone and Dakota Access pipelines. "We want the Cabinet choices to demonstrate that we're heard, when behind closed doors we're told to 'get a life,'" said one environmentalist, still smarting from stolen emails released by WikiLeaks that showed Clinton mocking greens in private comments to union members.

For EPA administrator, some greens favor Van Jones, a long-time environmental activist who served as President Barack Obama's green jobs adviser for less than a year, or Obama's first-term agency head, Lisa Jackson, returning to serve in a Clinton administration. They're also pushing Rep. Raul Grijalva, the Arizona Democrat who is a fierce defender of public lands, for Interior secretary. One activist even suggested that Jane KleeB, a leader of the grassroots anti-Keystone XL movement, would be a good candidate for a job in a Clinton administration. And two names top the list of nominees who they would oppose: Colorado Gov. John Hickenlooper and former Obama White House climate adviser Heather Zichal.

Sent from my iPhone